

The relaxation of ownership regulations would further centralize and decimate the broadcast industry. Clear Channel (and others) have shown that they do not operate their franchises in obedience of the "public interest, convenience and necessity" mandate upon which the FCC rules exist. I urge the Commission not to change ownership regulations, and not to cede the broadcast industry to a narrow and essentially non-public ownership.